RACE RULES

Competitors cover the entire distance on foot only.

Competitors move along the marked route only.

Each competitor is obliged to observe road traffic regulations.

Each competitor is obliged to observe the rules of Magurski National Park and general rules applicable within national parks in Poland and in forest areas.

Each competitor is obliged to observe the epidemic rules set by the Organizer as well as the official regulations binding in Poland.

It is strictly forbidden to leave rubbish behind, destroy plants or engage in any other activities which may harm nature.

Pacing and muling is entirely forbidden. Third parties' help is only permitted within the areas defined by the organizer.

Competitor should attach the runner number in a visible place at the front.

Competitors will be classified in female and male categories. The best performers will be awarded prizes.

SAFETY, COMPULSORY KIT

Competitors enter the race at their own risk and in case of injury or material loss they will not lodge any claims to the organisers. By taking part in the race, each competitor declares that their health condition allows them to engage in this type of physical activity. Competitors are obliged to exercise extreme caution at race office, start/finish zones, when crossing paved roads and railway tracks; while running on paved roads competitors are obliged to observe warning signs placed by the organisers, as well as adhere to the instructions given by police and security staff. While using public roads, runners bind themselves to use the pavement or –as second choice – the left roadside. If there is no such possibility, runners use the left side of the road and give the right of way to vehicles on the road.

Due to safety reasons, each competitor is obliged to have the following compulsory equipment with them during the race:

- backpack/hip bag
- water container (1 litre minimum)
- drinking cup (120ml minimum) to receive drinks at aid stations (water bottles and flasks are not allowed)
- head lamp with fully charged batteries
- replacement torch with fully charged batteries (torches integrated in phones or other devices are not allowed)

- course map
- runner number – in a visible place – throughout the entire course
- full hand gloves
- hat/buff
- long trousers or leggings (3/4-length with long socks are also acceptable, but it is important that the leg is completely covered)
- long sleeve top – minimum 150 grams
- waterproof jacket with hood

- footwear appropriate for mountain runs
- red backlight (lamps on phones are not allowed)

Moreover, the organizer recommends competitors to upload GPX track of the route or the digital map to their devices.

Organizer reserve the right to conduct the checking of the compulsory kit before, during or just after the race. Failure to have any of the above elements of the compulsory kit will result in the competitor being disqualified (does not apply to cash which may be spent during the race and medical materials which may be used if needed). From dusk till dawn, red light has to be turned on and placed in a visible place on the back of the runner or the backpack.

WITHDRAWAL, INJURIES

If you want to withdraw from the race during the run, you should, as far as possible, do so in one of the checkpoints and inform the checkpoint staff about your withdrawal. If you cannot notify the checkpoint staff it is necessary to inform the organiser by calling the emergency number provided in your start pack. If not injured, transportation will be available only at checkpoints to Komańcza.

If a competitor requires medical or emergency assistance, they should, as far as possible, inform the organiser at one of the checkpoints or by calling the emergency telephone number. Each competitor, upon seeing that a fellow competitor requires assistance, is obliged to provide such assistance to the extent possible and call the emergency number in order to inform the organiser about the location, injury type and runner number of the injured competitor.

In case of withdrawal from the race, a competitor has to collect the deposit from the finish line, in person. Upon email request it is possible to send the deposit to the competitor at his/her expense.
